A Look Back at the 2009 Big West Softball Season

Another year of highs and accomplishments is in the books for Big West softball, a solid campaign that will go down as one of the more exciting seasons in conference history.

Cal Poly regained its perch atop the Big West mountain, going 41-12 with an 18-3 record in league play. The Mustangs were the league's dominant bunch from the get go, posting two win streaks of 13 and 14 games, amassing an incredible 18-1 record at home and losing only one conference series during the Big West schedule. The club also set new program standards for overall wins, conference wins and home winning streak (18), and won its first postseason contests as a member of Division I. The squad had its share of awards which included Jenny Condon named Coach of the Year for the third time in five seasons and

Anna Cahn was a two-way threat for Cal Poly, leading the Mustangs to their second Big West title in three seasons

Anna Cahn heaped with the Big West Pitcher of the Year and first team NFCA All-West Region honors.

Cal State Fullerton had its usual strong season under Michelle Gromacki, going 30-21 and finishing just a game behind Cal Poly with a 17-4 mark. Included in that conference record was a series win over the eventual league champion Mustangs. The 2009 edition of the Titans was an interesting tale of two seasons as they started out with a 5-11 mark but closed the season on a 25-10 run on the way to yet another NCAA Tournament appearance. To illustrate how consistent CSF has been over the years, its seven-game losing skid earlier in the season is the longest in program history.

Rounding out the top three clubs in 2009 was Long Beach State, who finished the year with a 35-21 record, which included a 15-6 mark in Big West games. LBSU also advanced to the NCAA Tournament where it was paired in a regional with longtime nemesis UCLA and former Big West members Fresno State and UNLV. LBSU also picked up two Big West softball awards for the second straight year as Jennifer Griffin was named Co-Field Player of the Year and Taylor Petty was named Co-Freshman of the Year. Petty's award marked the third consecutive season that the Freshman Pitcher of the Year had come from LBSU.

UC Riverside had arguably its most successful Big West campaign as a member of the conference as the Highlanders won seven games against conference rivals, the most wins during the conference slate for UCR as a member of the Big West. The resurgence of the Highlanders is more impressive considering that just two years ago, UCR went winless in 18 conference outings.

In all, the Big West performed extremely well in non-conference play. The league went 135-114 in non-conference play, won 13 games against ranked non-conference opposition and had a winning record against three of the six BCS conferences. In addition, 2009 marked the first time since the 1999 season that all of the league's postseason participants won at least one NCAA contest.
