Central Coast Makes Noise In 2010 Season

UC Santa Barbara's second consecutive trip to the NCAA Tournament and Cal Poly's record sixth Big West regular season championship were some of the highlights during the 2009 women's soccer season.

The Gauchos ended a 17-year hiatus from the NCAA Tournament when they reached the field of 64 in 2008. No such wait would take place this season as UCSB's repeat appearance in the NCAA Tournament gave the program consecutive trips for the first time since appearing in three straight from 1989-91. UC Santa Barbara earned its second straight NCAA Tournament appearance, and ninth overall, representing the Big West against Mountain West Conference foe Brigham Young in the first round. The two teams played each other at Stanford's Laird Q. Cagan Stadium where the Cougars emerged with a 2-0 victory over the Gauchos.

Cal Poly captured its sixth regular season conference title on the final day of the league ledger with a 2-0 win at Central Coast rival UC Santa Barbara. The Mustangs have won more regular season titles than any other Big West member since the conference began sponsoring women's soccer in 1996. All six titles - 1997, 1999, 2000, 2002, 2003 and 2009 - have been won outright.

Penalty kick shootouts continued to work like a charm for UC Santa Barbara in 2010. For the second straight season, the Gauchos earned the Big West's automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament by virtue of being the conference's tournament champion. After defeating Cal State Northridge 2-1 in semifinal road action, the Gauchos shifted their attention up the 101 Freeway to San Luis Obispo and tournament top seed Cal Poly. Ninety minutes of regulation and two 10-minute overtimes could not break a 1-1 deadlock, so a winner-take-all penalty kick showdown ensued. The Gauchos edged the Mustangs 5-4, besting their Central Coast rival in PK's for the second consecutive year.

UC Santa Barbara repeated as Big West Tournament champs in 2009.
